The IRS differentiates between the two by stating a business operates to make a profit where as, a hobby is carried on for sport or recreation, not to make a profit. Whether the activity is a business or a hobby will dictate the expenses allowed as a deduction on a tax return. For the business questions and farm questions, please indicate if the activity is established with the intent to make a profit or if it is a hobby. Intent involves whether you are treating it as a business with proper business factors, such as keeping accounting records.
